QUESTIONNAIRE

We are conducting a study to understand customers' perspectives on how companies' privacy practices influence online trust and purchase intentions. Your participation will provide valuable insights. Please answer all questions honestly. Your responses will be kept anonymous.

1. Have you ever made an online purchase?

- Yes
- No

2. Have you been affected by improper use of your personal information?

- Yes
- No

3. Do you care about your privacy when making online purchases?

- Yes
- No

4. How often do you shop online in a typical month?

- Never
- 1-2 times
- 3-5 times
- 6-10 times
- More than 10 times

5. What concerns, if any, do you have when providing personal information to online retailers? (Select all that apply)

- Identity theft
- Data breaches
- Tracking of browsing history
- Sharing data with third parties
- Lack of transparency about data practices
- No concerns
- Other (please specify)

In the next part, how much do you agree with the following statements: (1. Strongly disagree, 2. Disagree, 3. Neutral, 4. Agree, 5. Strongly agree)

Items	1	2	3	4	5
1. Concerns about Organization's Privacy Information Practices
I typically find it unsettling when companies request personal information from me.
There are occasions when I hesitate to share personal information with companies.
Giving personal information to numerous companies can be unsettling for me.
I worry that companies are accumulating excessive amounts of personal information about me.
It's essential to thoroughly verify the accuracy of all personal information stored in computer databases, regardless of the associated costs.
Businesses need to implement additional measures to ensure the accuracy of personal information stored in their records.
Companies must establish more effective procedures for rectifying inaccuracies in personal data.

Items	1	2	3	4	5
Enhanced efforts should be made by companies to meticulously verify the precision of personal information held in their databases.
Personal information should only be utilized by companies for purposes explicitly authorized by the individuals who provided it.
Once individuals furnish personal information to a company for a specific purpose, the company should refrain from using that information for any other purpose.
Companies should refrain from selling personal information stored in their computer databases to other entities.
Without explicit authorization from individuals, companies should not share personal information with other businesses.
Companies need to allocate more resources and effort toward preventing unauthorized access to personal data.
It's imperative to safeguard computer databases containing personal information from unauthorized access, regardless of the associated expenses.
Companies should implement additional measures to prevent unauthorized individuals from accessing personal information stored in their computer systems.
2. Online trust
The website of this store inspires trust.
This store's website upholds its promises and assurances.
I have confidence in this store's website.
The seller is prepared to exchange items in case of any problems.
3. Purchase intention
I will contemplate acquiring the item.
There's a strong chance I'll make the purchase.
I'm highly inclined to buy the product.
If necessary, I'll procure the item from the seller.

Demographics

Gender	Male	1
	Female	2
Age group	18 - 25	1
	26 - 35	2
	36 - 45	3
	> 45	4
Occupation	Housewife	1
	Student	2
	Office worker	3
	Lecturer	4
	Government employee	5

Thank you for your cooperation!